Principles of Good Practice for School Ministry in Episcopal Schools

National Association of Episcopal Schools

New in 2016!

The ministry of a school chaplain, in Episcopal schools, is both a time-honored one, as well as one that currently exists amidst a great deal of change. NAES offers these principles of good practice to highlight the potential for school chaplaincy—based on the experience of seeing good chaplains at work—as well as to serve as a resource for a school in these and a variety of other contexts:

• As a tool for evaluation of the position of chaplain
• As a vehicle through which schools can review their Episcopal identities
• As an aid in formulating a position description for a chaplain as well as in the search for a new chaplain

An important new resource for heads of school, chaplains, rectors, bishops, and other school and church leaders considering the role and importance of school ministry.

Principles of Good Practice for Equity and Justice in Episcopal Schools
National Association of Episcopal Schools

By weaving the principles of equity and justice into the very fabric of the school’s overall life, Episcopal schools ensure that their missions are built on the sure foundation of a Christian love that guides and challenges all who attend our schools to build lives of genuine meaning, purpose and service. Adopted by the NAES Governing Board in 2013, this document outlines ideals to which Episcopal schools aspire. It is intended to assist Episcopal schools of all sizes and constellations in their efforts to develop meaningful programs, policies, and curricula, and serves as a useful tool for the ongoing assessment of this work.
